

Major Cities of Europe

- The Major Cities of Europe IT User's Group is an independent group of representatives from cities all over Europe.

The objectives of the group are:

- To effect a voluntary exchange of ideas, visions and experience between members of the Group for the purpose of improving the performance of local government by using information technology.
- The Group was founded in 1982 as a result of an initiative by the Greater London Council. The membership covers almost every country in Scandinavia and the Western and Southern parts of Europe. Since the end of the Cold War cities from the eastern part of Europe have also joined the Group.

- Although the exact position and tasks of local authorities in the different countries may vary, the main objectives will be the same. The value of the Group lies in the benefit of its members sharing and exchanging information, so that common problems and solutions can be discussed.

The Groups Annual Conference is usually held in June and is hosted by one of the member cities.

Applications for membership are submitted at the Annual Meeting. The collective interests of the Group are in the hands of an Organizing Committee, elected at the annual meeting. The chairman, secretary and treasurer take care of daily affairs.
